Solihull Council is reviewing all polling districts and places used at elections in the borough. Polling districts are areas within an electoral ward or parliamentary constituency, while polling places are where polling stations are located.

The review will consider the existing arrangements against the new Solihull ward boundaries, which were announced by the Local Government Boundary Commission in March 2025. It aims to ensure electors have reasonable and practical facilities for voting and that polling places are accessible to all. The changing of any ward or parish council boundary is not considered in this review.

Before making your representation, please read the maps which show the existing polling districts and places.
